REMEMBERING Charlie

We are totally and 100% heartbroken and lost without our Charlie. He was the troublemaker, the funny one, the bossy one. He has such a big personality, and such a little lover, always wanting me to love on him and when we would go to bed he needed me to be touching him, be it his little foot or my hand on his belly. My family got a thousand laughs at how he had to be in my face all the time. I think since I had him I have only watched half the tv screen, because his pretty little face block the other half staring at me. I will truly miss him, but so very thankful his illness was short lived and he only knew love all his life. He will always be my little man! RIP my sweet Charlie!
