

Dude Lockridge

November 24, 2007 - July 13, 2024

November 24, 2007 to July 13, 2024

Dude, our beloved canine companion, was more than just a dog; he was a cherished member of our family, a source of joy, and a constant companion. From the moment he joined our lives, he brought a unique blend of charm, loyalty, and a hint of mischievousness that endeared him to everyone who knew him.

Every morning, Dude would embark on his self-appointed patrol of the yard, his keen eyes and nose working diligently like a seasoned detective. His dedication to ensuring our home was safe from any nocturnal intruders was both impressive and heartwarming. After completing his patrol, he would embark on his daily walk around the block, steadfastly following his preferred route, uninterested in any deviations.

Dude had a discerning palate, often turning his nose up at the usual dog food breakfast, preferring instead to wait patiently for his favorite treat of bacon. His culinary preferences didn't end there; he had a particular fondness for steak. Every night, he would patiently watch me eat and when I would get up he would follow me to the kitchen, his prancing steps filled with anticipation for his nightly steak treat.

With a life of luxury and comfort, Dude had six beds strategically placed around our home and one in the car. Whether it was the cozy bed in the car, the comforting one in my office, the two in the family room perfect for watching over us, or the two in the bedroom for a restful sleep, Dude made sure to utilize each one. His rotations, every one to three hours, depended on where the best spot for quiet, fun, music, or the best view of my activities was.

Road trips were another of Dude's delights. His enthusiasm for new adventures and new friends was palpable, and he particularly enjoyed the special treats that came with these trips. Pup cups from Starbucks and Dunkin', along with pup patties from In-N-Out and Sonic, were among his favorites. He would sit on my lap and greet the baristas at the Starbucks drive through with his eternal puppy face. The joy these simple pleasures brought him was infectious, and his happiness was a constant reminder of the beauty in life's small moments.

Dude's legacy is one of love, loyalty, and a zest for life that touched everyone he met. His presence filled our home with warmth and laughter, and his memory will forever be etched in our hearts. He was, undeniably, the best dog ever, and his spirit will continue to inspire us to cherish every moment, just as he did.

Rest in peace, sweet Dude. You were truly one of a kind.
